RECOMMENDATION

☐ Approval ☒ Approval with conditions ☐ Denial

That the district must submit a report to the Safe and Healthy Kids Program Office (SHKPO) no later than July 31, 2005 that describes its progress in evaluating the use of the Connect With Kids program within the district and submit a report to the SHKPO no later than July 31, 2006 that describes the progress made by Compass Consulting in submitting the results of the evaluation to (1) the National Registry of Effective Programs, for possible designation as a Model, Blueprint, or Validated Program. The district must be willing to take part in a formal evaluation, if requested. The district must also evaluate its own comprehensive prevention program in accordance with the district's approved Local Educational Agency Plan.

SUMMARY OF PREVIOUS STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION DISCUSSION AND ACTION

State Board Policy 03-01 contains guidelines for approval of applications for waiver of the NCLB requirements that Title IV funds be used for "science-based" prevention programs. The board has previously approved a waiver of this program for use by Sacramento City USD (Fed-12-2003).

SUMMARY OF KEY ISSUES

The waiver application from the Arcadia USD regarding the Connect With Kids program has been reviewed to ensure compliance with the three major criteria described in SBE policy 03-01 that must be met in order for the waiver to be approved by the board. The waiver application's success in meeting each of the three criteria is described as follows:

1. Is the program innovative?

The Connect With Kids (CWK) news was first broadcast via television in September 1998. The related curriculum first became available for use by schools in Spring 2001. The CWK program does meet the test for being a new program. The program design is based on prevention theory drawn from published research related to peer influences, factors relating to bullies, victims and aggression. The program promotes a school violence prevention model with five major components, the most innovative of which is the use of televised media as an intervention. The program's coordinated use of televised and video-taped programming with curriculum is based on research cited in half a dozen published studies described in detail as part of the supplement to the application submitted by the district (Research Supporting the CONNECT Program, Anderson and McHenry, June 2003).

The hallmark of this program's innovative nature is its use of a televised reality-based education series consisting of half-hour programs and corresponding character education and life skills curriculum. The primary objective of the CWK program is to build a televised network that is the most trusted resource for reality-based programming on children's issues available to local communities, educators, school districts and families. This multimedia integrated intervention and prevention program for grades 3-12 includes videos and lesson plans with Web-based resources for teachers, parents and students. Each video documentary features real stories about real students, while focusing on key social issues or behavioral topics. The curriculum is designed to support peer-led discussion and a high level of teacher and student participation.

2. Does the program demonstrate substantial likelihood of success?

Preliminary program evaluation from an unpublished report (July, 2003 Institute for Social Development) indicates that the program demonstrates the likelihood of success for improving general classroom behavior related to politeness, obeying teachers, anger, threats, and bullying. Overall, the majority of areas assessed remained stable across the school year according to both students and teachers. A mix of positive and negative trends was found for a sub-set of items. Students tended to see the school climate as safer and more conducive for learning at post data collection. However, students saw their own behavior and those of other students more negatively. Clearly, more research on the efficacy of the CWK program is warranted and needed. Initial research is quite limited, because without a control group, natural changes in the measured dimensions over time could not be assessed or controlled for in this evaluation. Therefore, it is not possible to determine whether the observed changes are due to the presence of the CWK in the schools.

However, with the condition that the Arcadia Unified School District participate in any formal evaluation of the CWK, there is an opportunity to subject the CWK to evaluation employing scientifically-based research methodology in order to determine if peer-led, televised supported, character education curriculum will change student behavior related to alcohol, other drug, and tobacco use and violence represents a valuable addition to the field of prevention research consistent with the Board's criteria.

3. Is there a plan and timeline for submitting the program for review and recognition?

The applicant has stated that when the 2003-2004 evaluation of the CWK is completed, the program will be submitted to the National Registry for Effective Programs (SAMHSA) for review and recognition as a science-based program. The timeline for submission is Spring/Summer 2004. This fully meets the Boards criteria in this regard.

Summary

The Department recommends that this waiver request be approved as it meets each of the three criteria identified in the State Board waiver policy regarding the federal statute.
